- A willingness to make proactive approaches to local schools, businesses and community groups
- A desire to support Jigsaw Trust's work

No specific skills or experience are required - if you're willing to learn, enjoy working as part of a team, and are passionate about improving opportunities for people with autism then get in touch!

Opportunities for you

- Working together as a group will offer you more opportunities to use your initiative and creativity as well as providing an additional social element – a great way to make new friends whilst making a difference.
- You'll make a positive and genuine contribution to the lives of children and adults living with autism.
- You'll be able to develop your skills and experience across a broad range of charitable activities.

Additional information

This is an ongoing and flexible role. Once you express your interest, we'll invite you to a group meeting. This will be a chance to meet other group members, discuss ideas and decide if the group is right for you. The first meeting will take place in Autumn/Winter 2020.

After your first meeting you'll need to participate in a short training session about fundraising on behalf of Jigsaw.
